Spangdahlem strengthens bond with 34 nations during Vienna Document visit

Spangdahlem Air Base hosted more than 68 delegates from 34 nations for a tour of the base's operations, maintenance and support functions and facilities June 27, 2013.

The delegates visited Spangdahlem as part of the Vienna Document 11 agreement. The agreement is a politically binding measure made to enhance participating nations' confidence in the safety and security of combat bases. Approximately 57 nations are involved in the agreement and each nation must host a Vienna Document visit every five years.

This is the first visit at Spangdahlem. Previous U.S. Air Forces in Europe bases who hosted the visit were Royal Air Force Lakenheath, England, and Aviano Air Base, Italy.

Throughout the visit, Airmen gained the delegates confidence by complying with the document in providing a transparent insight into the base's daily operations.

"We are satisfied with this visit," said Col. Murat Dikkar, head of the Turkish army's verifications center. "This is a confidence building measure as it promotes peace and stability for all of us here. I am satisfied because I saw power and readiness...I was impressed with the maintenance, organization and discipline the U.S. Air Force displayed today; it was very noticeable."

Dikkar further said he anticipates going back to his unit in Turkey with good news of cooperation with the United States and other partnering nations.

U.S. Air Force Brig. Gen. Tom Sharpy, U.S. Air Forces in Europe and Air Forces Africa director of plans programs and analysis, shared similar insight as he mentioned the importance of not only providing full disclosure and abiding to the treaty, but building partnerships through trust and cooperation during the event.

Our goal is to make each nation here better because together we are stronger," Sharpy said. "The goal of this visit has been to show our visitors everything it takes to complete the mission and that really involves our Airmen; they are what make the mission possible."

Berlin Airlift Remembrance Ceremony

The 65th anniversary commemorating the beginning of the Berlin Airlift was held at the Berlin Airlift Memorial in Frankfurt, Germany June 26, 2013.

Frankfurt officials thanked guests for coming to the ceremony.

"I'm very happy to express the official greetings of the city of Frankfurt in the name of the magistrate, in the name of the municipal assembly," said Uwe Becker, Frankfurt city treasurer.

On June 24, 1948, the Soviet Union halted all supplies into the city of West Berlin from Allied Forces. In response, the allies had to think of a plan to supply the city with food, water and fuel. That is when "Operation Vittles" known today as the Berlin Airlift was started.

This logistical feat carried in more than 3,000 tons of supplies per day to the people of Berlin; however, the United States and its allies were more than up for the task. More than 5,000 tons of supplies were delivered to Berlin a day and by the end of the operation that number reached 8,000.

It was clear that the Soviet Union blockade of West Berlin had failed. On May 12, 1949, the blockade was lifted and the roads, canals and railway routes were reopened.

The event featured several guest speakers such as Peter Schmitz, Frankfurt Airport Director of operations and special guest speaker Retired U.S. Air Force Col. Gail Halvorsen, known to Berliners during the Berlin Airlift as "The Berlin Candy Bomber."

"This chapter of the early operation in the Cold War remarkably strengthened the German - American relationship as it was at this time and still is an impressive commitment for the defense of freedom of West Berlin and with this the freedom of all our country of Germany," said Becker.

Halvorsen spoke to the people at the ceremony thanking the Germans and telling his story of how he became known as the "Mr. Wiggly Wings" and the "Candy Bomber" to the kids of West Berlin.

"The children were so grateful, not one would say 'gimmie', makes you want to do more. Two sticks of gum is all I had they broke it in half four pieces, I thought there would be a fight but there wasn't," said Halvorsen. "These children were so grateful they would not ask for more than freedom."
